Lets face it, no woman wants to put up with symptoms of menopause. Here are just a few of the nasty symptoms that are associated with menopause:

- Painful cramps
- Headaches
- Headaches
- Irritability
- Sore breasts
- Lower back pain
- Abdominal pain
- Extreme mood swings that can make you flip out on people for no apparent reason!
- And so much more!

Do any of the above side effects of menopause sound appealing to you? Didnt think so. Luckily, today we have a revolutionary safe new tool to help fight these symptoms. These symptoms are often caused by fluctuations in your hormones. This is something completely out of your control, yet it can make you feel incredibly out of control physically and mentally, especially by the onset of hot flashes.

It is important to try to keep it under control and to not let people get to you when you are experiencing such symptoms. Fortunately, there is hope for you to help restore balance and normality to your life. So whats the answer and solution? Natural progesterone therapy. This form of therapy can help alleviate symptoms of menopause from the inside out, often with zero side effects. Natpros natural progesterone cream is one such tool for successfully combating the negative symptoms of menopause. It works by helping to naturally enhance your bodys natural ability to produce progesterone. It is 100% organic and completely safe to use.

Relief can be found within 5 days typically. The quality of the cream used will determine how long it will take before benefits can be seen. Other natural progesterone creams contain unnatural, unsafe ingredients and can take months before any form of alleviation is seen. Progesterone cream can be used anytime during the day, sometimes even on more than one occasion.

So how much cream should a woman use? Post menopausal use is recommended at half a teaspoon (or 2 grams) daily. Many women can even discontinue using the cream once their symptoms have cleared up. This is usually achieved after a few months of use, when beneficial results are consistent. So what makes Natpro completely organic and natural?

The following ingredients are 100% organic:

- Spring water

- Vitamin E
- Organic citrus extract
- Natural progesterone extract 2000 mg
- Organic macadamia oil
- Sodium borate

All these ingredients are very gentle when applied to the skin. The active ingredient of course, is natural progesterone extract. With Natpros formulation of progesterone, many women report a major reduction in symptoms of hot flashes, headaches and sore breasts. Natural progesterone therapy really helps alleviate symptoms of menopause and using a 100% natural progesterone cream such as Natpro can provide you with the relief you deserve.
